

Take Control of Your Cases

Manage Discovery, Centralize Document Review and Control Legal Costs

Corporate counsel must manage growing volumes of electronic discovery with shrinking resources—all as regulatory demands increase. When you need to do more with less, turn to Catalyst for a centralized litigation support platform. For over a decade, we've helped many of the world's largest organizations manage electronic discovery, including five of the world's 10 largest companies, four of the 10 largest insurers and 80 of the nation's 100 largest law firms.

Web-Based Repositories Offer Immediate Savings

Our web-based repositories help corporations and their counsel:

- Get an early read on the case, players and potential liability
- Reduce data sets and target review toward relevant documents
- Speed up reviews, manage productions and cut litigation costs

Save on processing and hosting costs by reusing files and work product, sharing a single repository across multiple parties and using it for productions and trial.

When you need to do more with less, turn to Catalyst for centralized e-discovery repositories.

The Power of a Centralized Discovery Repository

Catalyst's web-based repositories cover the heart of the litigation lifecycle, from processing to search, review, production and trial. You save money by centralizing the process—one trusted partner to manage your files, connect counsel and coordinate the entire process.

Reining in Review

Review costs make up the largest part of a corporation's discovery spend—by some estimates $12 billion annually. Catalyst's search and review platform is designed to help with early case assessment so you can zero in on relevant documents quickly. Our Review Module provides customized workflow and efficient review, from anywhere in the world.

Multi-Language Search and Review

Catalyst provides the leading multi-language repository, capable of handling more than 70 languages. We regularly support multi-language documents from Europe, Asia and the Middle East. We also have years of experience assisting corporations with regulatory matters including FTC Second Requests and complex FCPA investigations.

The Catalyst Advantage—A Central, Secure Platform for Your E-Discovery Needs

With Catalyst you get a one-stop shop where data remains with a single provider, reducing delays and potential mistakes. Processes can be standardized and data can be reused. You also get a support team that has been managing complex litigation for over a decade, backed by a global partner network to handle forensics and collections. That's the Catalyst Advantage.

"We've used Catalyst since 2004 to help manage thousand of cases. Their software is great, and their team provides the best service we have ever seen. I strongly recommend them."
