Nashville Firms Team With National Experts To Present Legal Seminar On E-Discovery Searches

Nashville, TN – Document Solutions, Inc., Catalyst Repository Systems and Bass, Berry & Sims will host e-discovery experts Tom Turner, John Tredennick, Kathryn Walker and Michael Arkfeld during a free legal seminar on June 15.

The seminar will explore the validity and use of keyword searches in e-discovery as well as new rules and tips to enhance e-discovery skills, and will provide 1.25 CLE credit hours to participants.

“This seminar brings together three of the top e-discovery experts in the nation,” said Tom Turner, president and co-founder of Document Solutions, Inc. “The tools and information available from this seminar will help lawyers craft better e-discovery searches and defend the validity of these searches in court.”

The seminar will take place from 11:30 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. at the Bass, Berry & Sims office in Nashville, and will include presentations and panel discussions on a variety of topics such as:

- The Search Cases: From O’Keefe to Hawley Insurance—Are lawyers qualified to craft and run their own search methodologies?
- Should you cooperate with opposing counsel in formulating search terms?
- Are you able to certify your search methodology for the Court?
- Defensibility of Your Search Protocol: What must lawyers do to ensure that inadvertently produced privileged documents will be returned and not used in the case pursuant to FRE 502 and “clawback agreements?”
